

~~Thank you for helping me.~~
~~My computer has been very slow these past few weeks.~~
~~It always sounds as if the vacuum is on.~~

Camille (You): Oh! No problem. Let's see what's wrong.
Camille (You): Your hard drive is full.

~~Full? How is that possible? Don't computers have infinite space?~~

Camille (You): Haha, not really.

~~I suppose I kept too many things.~~

Camille (You): There's a random PDF here. I can delete it.

~~Oh! I wanted to make those for carnival last year.~~
~~One for me and one for Dana.~~
~~She said we would look ridiculous.~~
~~We ended up not going. I don't need the pattern anymore.~~

Camille (You): We can leave this one for later, if you want.

~~You are kind. But I think we should delete it.~~
~~Thank you. I'm sorry you're spending your time deleting files instead of studying or~~
~~enjoying your free time.~~

Camille (You): Oh, no problem.

~~Would you like something to drink?~~
~~Coffee? Tea? I also have those terrible little biscuits my grandson loves.~~

-> Coffee would be nice, thank you.
~~Good. People work better with a little bit of fuel, especially my coffee!~~

-> No, thank you. I should continue.
~~Serious student! Don't let me distract you.~~
~~I will be in the kitchen if you need me.~~
-> Maybe later.

~~Alright!~~

Camille (You): Oh, sorry. I didn't mean to snoop. It's just that your mailbox is also full and I clicked on the notification out of habit.

~~Ha, nothing to worry about. Really.~~

Camille (You): I didn't mean to read, but I'm really sorry if you experienced a loss. I know it can be very hard.
Thank you. She was actually ready to go, but it really doesn't make it easier.

There, I left some coffee for you next to your computer.

Camille (You): Thank you.

Why is there a file different from all others on the screen ?

Camille (You): Hmmm, that's an image. Do you want to open it ?

Yes.

Camille (You):

-> Are you okay?
